Knowledge exchange series

The Climate Coffee series is relaunching!

Climatecoffees are short (since 40 min), relaxed meetings for scientists to share ideas, discuss methods and communicate new results. They are open to speakers at all levels of seniority, we especially encourage early career scientists to become a speaker.

The coffees are an exciting opportunity for scientists to build a network and disseminate recent results, peer-to-peer.

We invite researchers from across the climate science community to join us for this series of regular online knowledge exchange events.

On average, we organise one or two climatecoffees per month, always on Thursdays. The time is always the same, from 10:00 - 10:40 am (CET).

The Danish Meteorological Institute, coordinating the Horizon Europe OCEAN:ICE project, and the European Climate Research Alliance (ECRA) work in partnership to run the Climate Coffee format.

Upcoming Climate Coffees
